

A top-down view of a wooden desk with various office supplies. On the left, a portion of a silver laptop keyboard is visible. In the center, there are three pencils: one yellow with an orange eraser, one red, and one blue. To the right, there are three paper clips in red, blue, and white. A notebook with a grid pattern is partially visible in the upper left. The background is a dark purple gradient with a pink rectangular shape in the top right corner.

RESPECT in the Workplace

Learn it. Live it. Pass it on.

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

Introductions

- ▶ Don Beaton, Commissioner of Corporate Services
- ▶ Louise O'Dell, Director of Human Resources

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

New Regional Program Launched November 27, 2019

- ▶ E-Learning Module based on Regional Policies
- ▶ Campaign Video launched featuring staff and bargaining unit representatives

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

New Regional Program Launched November 27, 2019

- ▶ Support from all levels of staff
- ▶ Based on the Region's Healthy Workplace Policy

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

Program designed to create an environment that supports employees:

- ▶ Expectations: Employees are respectful and considerate in their interactions with one another, customers, clients and the public
- ▶ Civility and respect are based on demonstrating esteem, care and consideration for others and acknowledging their dignity

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

Ties to Healthy Workplace program

- ▶ Protect and Enhance Individual Psychological safety
- ▶ Augment Personal Health Practices
- ▶ Deliver innovative practices for the Health, Safety and Wellness Program
- ▶ Employee commitment to demonstrate respectful and professional behaviours

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

When civility and respect are missing in the workplace:

- ▶ Leads to emotional exhaustion
- ▶ Increase in health problems – burnout, anxiety, aggression, stress
- ▶ Greater conflict
- ▶ Job withdrawal
- ▶ Inhibits teamwork and erodes trust

Positive Work Environment

Part of a respectful work environment includes taking active, conscious steps to contribute positively:

1. Accept personal responsibility
2. Respect other people's comfort zones
3. Have a positive attitude
4. Don't gossip
5. Demonstrate professionalism

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

- ▶ Course is Mandatory for all staff to take by end of 2020
- ▶ Both in-person group training and self e-training

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

Campaign Video

- ▶ Each Participant was asked “What does Civility and Respect mean to you?”
- ▶ Enthusiastic response from bargaining units and staff to participate

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

Township of Uxbridge

- ▶ Pleased to make the video available as well as the e-learning
- ▶ Share our policies and procedures with your team to customize to Uxbridge

Civility & Respect in the Workplace

Questions